June, July, August

SUMMER 1949 . . .

offers a tempting promise to the traveler. June, July, and August will feature, from coast to coast, a series of holidays and special occasions of great variety. There is something for every taste. Saint's Day feasts and fiestas in the colorful Southwest; a gala array of big and small festivities along the west coast ranging from community fish fries to Oregon's whoop-it-up Pendleton Roundup. Rodeos and pioneer days dot the western map. A new Federal area will be dedicated in North Dakota. State and county fairs begin their long season during these months. Music will fill the summer night as outdoor concerts and operettas get under way. And again this year, Chicago's Railroad Fair on the shores of Lake Michigan will serve to give added impetus to the essential human urge to be up and away, to see new sights and new people.

Front Cover

It doesn't matter how you pronounce it. Any western rodeo features high-flying horse-flesh. Union Pacific photo.

Back Cover

Indian dances and ceremonials exercise a never-failing lure to the traveler. The intricate Hoop Dance is no exception. Trans World Airline photo.

Using the NATIONAL CALENDAR . . .

Although this listing of summer events is as accurate and complete as we can make it, we advise persons using it to inquire for confirmation and further information. Chambers of Commerce, in the city or town, or official travel information offices in the State where the event is scheduled can either help you or forward your inquiry to the proper source. This is especially desirable where dates are shown as tentative or where the notation "NFD" (no fixed date) is used.

The United States Travel Division has a folder (Number 1 in the "Sources of Travel Information" series) which lists official travel information offices in each of the 48 States, the Territories, and island possessions. A copy can be obtained free by addressing:
