Guidance on the Treatment of Historic Properties

U.S. Department of the Interior
National Park Service
Cultural Resources Programs
Preservation Assistance Division
1995

Preface

For much of this century, the National Park Service has led Federal efforts to preserve the country's important historic places. As part of this stewardship role, we are continuing to expand our technical and educational assistance to ever-broadening audiences.

This catalog shares with you the most up-to-date guidance and information on preserving and maintaining historic buildings and landscapes. The 100 books, leaflets, videotapes, and data bases described on the following pages all are available readily at modest or no cost and are intended to help citizens, communities, and governments manage and protect places that are important to them. All were produced by the National Park Service, many in partnership with outside organizations.

Through this remarkable collection of technical publications, the National Park Service is pleased to demonstrate its commitment to the preservation of our architectural and landscape heritage. Let us hear how we may continue to serve you and your community.

Foreword

In the mid-1970s, with an agenda stimulated by the ongoing damage of historic buildings due to a lack of information about their proper care, the National Park Service began to develop a publication program to address the problem. From the outset, the goal was to publish state-of-the-art information that would vary in intent, complexity, and audience in order to convey responsible methods of treating our nation's irreplaceable historic resources. The information needed to be easy-to-read, readily available, and free or modestly priced. For the National Park Service's Preservation Assistance Division, 1995 marks the 20th anniversary of a technical publication program which claims over 100 titles currently in print and available to the public, and which has sold and distributed over 3 million copies during this time.

In the 70s, the National Park Service perceived a critical need for guidance to ensure that historic buildings were properly treated. Individuals working on historic buildings did not have access to reliable, accurate information on appropriate preservation and rehabilitation techniques and products. As a result, building materials and features were being lost to destructive approaches, such as improper cleaning, poor repointing, and incompatible replacement windows.

The Service's first challenge in reversing these trends was to develop professional Standards which were common sense principles against which project work could be weighed. As such, the Secretary of the Interior's Standards are the bulwark of the program and distinguish it from every other program in the nation. They were designed to address a variety of treatments, such as preservation, rehabilitation, restoration, and reconstruction, and have been revised throughout the years to reflect the most recent technologies. The Standards are in evidence in each technical publication produced by the Preservation Assistance Division.

The scope and diversity of the National Park Service's technical preservation guidance publications over a 20-year period is best appreciated when seen in a comprehensive catalog listing. The collection includes Standards and Guidelines, public service leaflets and books on using the Tax Incentives, reports on conserving fragile historic building materials, case studies on specific structures, and a wealth of technical preservation guidance on preserving historic buildings and landscapes. Responding to key environmental and educational issues of the day, its publications address topics such as the need for sensitivity to historic landscapes; accessibility to historic properties for people with disabilities; lead paint abatement in old houses, and heritage awareness-building for schoolage children. The series include Preservation Briefs, Preservation Tech Notes, Technical Reports, Co-published books, and Preservation Case Studies.

As the National Park Service begins its third decade of providing guidance, the Standards and Guidelines have been adopted by many local review commissions nationwide and information in the Preservation Briefs is routinely referenced in architectural specifications. Overall, the publications listed in this Catalog have had a profound impact on the way the public both perceives and treats historic properties. For example, the dangers of abrasive cleaning are now widely known; the repair of historic windows is now recognized as a viable option; repointing is considered both for its appearance and long-term effect on the building envelope; the importance of historic interiors is more widely appreciated; and historic landscapes are now acknowledged for the significant role they play in defining our nation's past.

The National Park Service conducts a variety of activities to guide Federal agencies, States, communities, and the private sector in the treatment and long-term protection of historic buildings, structures, sites, landscapes, objects, and districts listed in the National Register of Historic Places. The Preservation Assistance Division, National Park Service:

- Develops professional standards and guidelines on historic preservation treatments.
 - Provides technical assistance to Federal agencies, States, communities, and private-citizens who undertake historic preservation project work on National Register properties.
 - Sponsors and conducts training, workshops, and study groups on key historic preservation treatment issues in partnership with national professional organizations.
 - Administers the Preservation Tax Incentives Program, including review of historic rehabilitation projects.
 - Produces and distributes a variety of technical and educational publications to promote the maintenance and long-term preservation of cultural resources.
 - Monitors the status of National Historic Landmarks and reports their condition annually to Congress.
 - Reviews Federal surplus property transfers to State and local governments for historic monument purposes.
 - Monitors Historic Preservation Fund grantee compliance with applicable laws, regulations, management policies and internal procedures.
 - Plans research to help evaluate the effects of acid rain on cultural resources.

Ordering Information

Free Publications

The National Park Service makes essential program information available free of charge. This information includes the Standards, brochures on various divisional activities, and applications for the preservation tax incentives program. Finally, a few technical guidance publications may still be obtained in single issue, subject to availability. For your ordering convenience, free publications are always listed first in every section and highlighted for easy reference (■). Single copies may be requested from the National Park Service, Preservation Assistance Division, P.O. Box 37127, Washington, D.C. 20013-7127.

Sales Publications

The Preservation Assistance Division makes its sales publications available through the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office; a variety of Partnership Sales outlets; and the National Technical Information Service. They always appear in that order in the catalog.

Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office (GPO).

The majority of technical guidance publications listed in this catalog are sold by GPO through direct catalog sales. When ordering a publication from GPO, you must include the title and the GPO stock number. Please use the GPO order form on page 21.

Next, you may wish to take advantage of the new GPO Standing Order Service to receive each Preservation Brief or Preservation Tech Note automatically—as soon as it is released. You establish an account by check or with a credit card; GPO does the rest. See the special order Standing Order form on page 23 for additional details.

Finally, GPO credit card users may also order by telephone 202-783-3238; or by fax 202-512-2250.

Partnership Sales. The National Park Service often participates in cooperative publication projects with other organizations. In these instances, guidance publications (or videos) may be offered at competitive prices through alternative or “partnership” sales outlets. No order forms are provided in these cases; addresses are noted within the Catalog text.

U.S. Department of Commerce, National Technical Information Service (NTIS).

When information is no longer in GPO or is not sold in a partnership sales outlet, the Preservation Assistance Division makes it available through NTIS. (Most are Technical Reports and Preservation Case Studies.) It should be noted that NTIS publications are available in paper copy or microfiche. The paper copy is a photocopy, not a printed publication. When ordering a Preservation Assistance Division publication from NTIS, you must include the title and the NTIS order number. Please note the NTIS order form on page 25.

Standards and Guidelines

Since their publication in 1976, the Secretary's Standards developed by the National Park Service have been used by State Historic Preservation Officers and the National Park Service to ensure that projects receiving Federal grant money or tax benefits were reviewed in a consistent manner nationwide. The principles embodied in the Standards have also been adopted by hundreds of preservation commissions nationwide in local design guidelines. While the Standards provide a consistent philosophical framework for treatment, the Guidelines suggest a model process to follow in the work, and thus assist in applying the Standards to both historic buildings and landscapes.

Preservation Briefs 25: The Preservation of Historic Signs.

Michael J. Auer.

Discusses the history of sign types pre-1800 to the 20th century, including symbol signs, flat signs, fascia signs, hanging signs, goldleaf signs, rooftop signs, and neon signs. Makes recommendations for their repair and re-use. 12 pages. 29 illustrations. 1991. GPO stock number: 024-005-01086-6. $1.00 per copy.

Preservation Briefs 26: The Preservation and Repair of Historic Log Buildings.

Bruce L. Bomberger.

Focuses on horizontally laid or vertically positioned logs, but the preservation and repair treatments are essentially the same for all log structures. Discusses traditional splicing-in techniques, the use of epoxies, and replacement, as well as guidance on the repair and replacement of chinking and daubing. 14 pages. 32 illustrations. 1991. GPO stock number: 024-005-01087-4. $1.00 per copy.

Preservation Briefs 27: The Maintenance and Repair of Architectural Cast Iron.

John G. Waite; historical overview by Margot Gayle.

Discusses the role of cast iron in the industrial development of our country during the 19th century and the resulting advances in building design and technology and ornamental detailing. Provides essential guidance on maintaining and repairing architectural cast iron within rehabilitation projects. 12 pages. 30 illustrations. 1991. GPO stock number: 024-005-01088-2. $1.00 per copy.

Preservation Briefs 28: Painting Historic Interiors.

Sara B. Chase.

Discusses wall paint and decorative surface treatments from the late 17th century to the 1950s. Describes the usefulness of a complete paint investigation for preservation and restoration projects. Provides guidance on the common causes of interior paint failure and preparing surfaces for repainting. Makes recommendations about new paint with health and safety factors in mind. 16 pages. 22 illustrations. 1992. GPO stock number: 024-005-01089-1. $1.00 per copy.

Preservation Briefs 29: The Repair, Replacement, and Maintenance of Slate Roofs.

Jeffrey S. Levine.

Describes the causes of slate roof failures and provides comprehensive guidance on their sensitive repair and, when necessary, their appropriate replacement. A useful Repair/Replacement Guideline is included to assist owners prior to work. 16 pages. 42 illustrations. 1992. GPO stock number: 024-005-01109-9. $1.25 per copy.

Preservation Briefs 30: The Preservation and Repair of Historic Clay Tile Roofs.

Anne E. Grimmer and Paul K. Williams.

Reviews the history of clay roofing tiles and describes many types and shapes of historic tiles, as well as their method of attachment. Provides general guidance for historic property owners on how to plan and carry out a project involving the repair and selected replacement of historic clay roofing tiles. 16 pages. 33 illustrations. 1992. GPO stock number: 024-005-01110-2. $1.25 per copy.

Preservation Briefs 31: Mothballing Historic Buildings.

Sharon C. Park, AIA.

Describes process of protecting a deteriorating historic building from weather as well as vandalism when funds are not currently available to begin a preservation, rehabilitation, or restoration project. 14 pages. 27 illustrations. 1993. GPO stock number: 024-005-01120-0. $1.50 per copy.

Preservation Briefs 32: Making Historic Properties Accessible.

Thomas C. Jester and Sharon C. Park, AIA.

Introduces the complex issue of providing accessibility at historic properties, and underscores the need to balance accessibility and historic preservation. Provides guidance and many examples of successful projects. 14 pages. 43 illustrations. 1993. GPO stock number: 024-005-01121-8. $1.50 per copy.

Preservation Briefs 33: The Preservation and Repair of Stained and Leaded Glass.

Neal A. Vogel and Rolf Achilles.

Gives a short history of stained and leaded glass in America. surveys basic preservation and documentation issues and addresses common causes of deterioration and presents protection, repair, and restoration options. 1993. 16 pages. 25 illustrations. 1993. GPO stock number: 024-005-01122-6. $1.50 per copy.

Preservation Briefs 34: Applied Decoration for Historic Interiors: Preserving Historic Composition Ornament.

Jonathan Thornton and William Adair, FAAR.

Describes the history, appearance, and characteristics of this uniquely pliable material. Provides guidance on identifying compo and suggests appropriate treatments, depending upon whether the project goal is preservation or restoration. 16 pages. 52 illustrations. 1994. GPO stock number: 024-005-01137-4. $1.50 per copy.

Preservation Briefs 35: Understanding Old Buildings: The Process of Architectural Investigation.

Travis C. McDonald, Jr.

Explains architectural investigation as the critical first step in planning an appropriate treatment—understanding how a building has changed over time and assessing levels of deterioration. Addresses the often complex investigative process in broad, easy-to-understand terminology. 1994. 16 pages. 23 illustrations. 1994. GPO stock number: 024-005-01144-7. $1.50 per copy.

Preservation Briefs 36: Protecting Cultural Landscapes: Planning, Treatment, and Management of Historic Landscapes.

Charles A. Birnbaum, ASLA.

Describes cultural landscapes as special places that reveal aspects of our country's origins and development through their form and features and the ways they were used. Provides a step-by-step process for preserving historic designed and vernacular landscapes to ensure a successful balance between historic preservation and change. 16 pages. 50 illustrations. 1994. GPO stock number: 024-005-01143-9. $1.50 per copy.

Preservation Briefs 37: Appropriate Methods of Reducing Lead-Paint Hazards in Historic Housing.

Sharon C. Park, AIA, and Douglas C. Hicks.

Recommends an appropriate methodology for planning and implementing measures to reduce lead-paint hazards in historic houses while preserving their character-defining features. This well-balanced approach is sensitive to the health and safety of children who live in historic houses as well as those involved in rehabilitation and restoration projects. Includes useful decisionmaking charts. 16 pages. 32 illustrations. 1995. GPO stock number: 024-005-01149-8. $1.75 per copy.

Future Topics

Additional topics for Preservation Briefs currently being developed in 1995/1996 include: graffiti removal, historic neon, preserving historic flooring, moisture damage to historic building materials, and the seismic retrofit of historic buildings.

A Glossary of Historic Masonry Deterioration Problems and Preservation Treatments.

Anne E. Grimmer.

Generously illustrated, provides information on 22 common masonry deterioration problems and their known treatment. Intended for use both as a general reference tool and an on-site interpretive guide in the maintenance and preservation of historic structures. 68 pages. 41 illustrations. 1984. NTIS order number: PB92-147172. $19.50 paper; $9.00 microfiche.

Cyclical Maintenance for Historic Buildings.

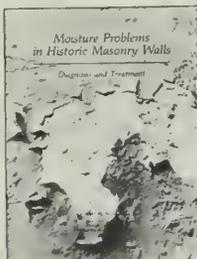

J. Henry Chambers, AIA.

Provides a step-by-step process for building managers, architects, and others involved in the routine maintenance of historic properties. 125 pages. 1976. NTIS order number: PB87-118659. $27.00 paper; $12.50 microfiche.

Epoxies for Wood Repairs in Historic Buildings.

Morgan W. Phillips and Dr. Judith E. Selwyn.

Presents research findings on the use of epoxies to preserve historic wood features rather than replacing them. Discusses low-viscosity epoxy consolidants that can be soaked into rotted wood in order to restore its solidity; and epoxy pastes for filling holes and cracks in historic woodwork. Includes useful case-study applications, suggested formulations, and lists of suppliers. 72 pages. 43 illustrations. Appendix. 1978. NTIS order number: PB85-180834. $19.50 paper; $9.00 microfiche.

Photogrammetric Recording of Cultural Resources.

Perry E. Borchers.

Describes the basic principles of photogrammetry and their application to the recording of cultural resources. Includes several case study applications. 38 pages. 27 illustrations. 1977. NTIS order number: PB85-180792. $17.50 paper; $9.00 microfiche.

Rectified Photography and Photo Drawings for Historic Preservation.

J. Henry Chambers, AIA.

Explains the process of making photographic negatives of a predetermined size or scale which can be enlarged to a convenient architectural scale, then printed on photo-sensitive drafting film for working drawings, surveys, and feasibility studies. 38 pages. 13 illustrations. 1973. NTIS order number: PB85-180768. $17.50 paper; $9.00 microfiche.

Using Photogrammetry to Monitor Materials Deterioration and Structural Problems on Historic Buildings: Dorchester Heights Monument, A Case Study.

J. Henry Chambers, AIA.

Details the cost-effectiveness of close-range photogrammetry in monitoring the condition of historic masonry structures, particularly when more conventional methods of inspection are impracticable. Bibliography. 16 pages. 6 illustrations. 1985. NTIS order number: PB87-232146. $17.50 paper; $9.00 microfiche.

X-Ray Examination of Historic Structures.

David M. Hart.

Explains a method for nondestructive probing of historic buildings that permits investigation of components normally hidden from view. Intended for architects, conservators, and other professionals. 24 pages. 19 illustrations. 1975. NTIS order number: PB85-180800. $17.50 paper; $9.00 microfiche.

Preservation Tech Notes

Preservation Tech Notes provide innovative solutions to specific problems in preserving cultural resources—buildings, structures, and objects. Tech Notes are intended for practitioners in the preservation field, including architects, contractors, and maintenance personnel, as well as for owners and developers seeking the preservation tax investment credit for rehabilitation.

Forthcoming Publications/Video

Cultural Landscape Preservation Case Studies.

Patricia M. O'Donnell, APA, ASLA.

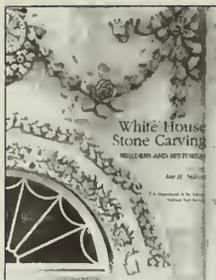

National Park Service/Alliance for Landscape Preservation. A series of illustrated case studies—national in scope—focusing on cultural landscape project work that met National Park Service Standards. The treatments Preservation, Rehabilitation, and Restoration are explained in the case studies and complex issues addressed. Available from the Alliance for Landscape Preservation in Spring, 1996.

(Video) Preserving America's Landscape Legacy.

National Park Service/American Society of Landscape Architects/Garden Conservancy. Intended to raise awareness, at the state and local level, about preserving historic landscapes. The video will define historic landscapes with examples of designed, rural, and ethnographic landscape types. The basic tools for landscape research, inventory, and analysis will be highlighted, including field reconnaissance, archival research, oral history, landscape archeology, and pollen analysis. These findings provide the basis for making decisions about preservation, rehabilitation, restoration, and reconstruction. Available in Spring, 1996.

"Whether we are grappling with...adding to a historic structure or the use of substitute materials for historic materials no longer available...the publications of the National Park Service are the first references we consult."

Preservation Case Studies

Preservation Case Studies provide practical solution-oriented information for developers, planners, and owners by presenting and illustrating a specific course of action taken to preserve one building or an entire block of buildings. Individual case studies may highlight an innovative rehabilitation technique, financing strategies, or an overall planning methodology. The majority of the Preservation Case Studies were published in 1978, 1979, and 1980 as exemplary "completion reports" that documented various aspects of Historic Preservation Fund (HPF) grant-in-aid project work.

Describes and illustrates preservation methods and techniques used in the exterior restoration of an Italianate mansion. 55 pages. 84 illustrations. Appendices. 1977. NTIS order number: PB85-180776. $19.50 paper; $9.00 microfiche.

National Historic Landmarks

Monitoring and Heritage Education

The Preservation Assistance Division monitors the status of National Historic Landmarks (NHLS) and reports their condition annually to Congress. Publications about NHLS or about the monitoring process itself are developed to raise awareness of the need to protect and preserve those cultural resources designated by the Secretary of the Interior for their "exceptional significance in history."
