FY 1996 Natural and Cultural Resources Management Operations Plan

INTRODUCTION

Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument, established in 1937, is located in southwestern Arizona and is geographically near the center of the Sonoran Desert. The monument encompasses 330,689 acres, of which 95% (312,600 acres) is designated wilderness. On October 26, 1976, the United Nations Education, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) recognized and designated Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument as a Biosphere Reserve. The primary significance of the monument is the perpetuation of a sample of the Sonoran Desert. Although the monument includes only a small portion of the vast Sonoran Desert, it preserves many elements of that ecosystem.

Resource Threats and Issues

Like many other National Park areas, the greatest threats to the resources of Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument are a result of the effects of development on lands adjacent to the monument. The primary resource management concern is the continued urbanization and agricultural development near the southern boundary of the monument, in the neighboring state of Sonora, Mexico. Of concern to monument management is the effect on native plants and animals of herbicide and pesticide drift, invasion of non-native flora and fauna, and most significantly, groundwater depletion in the Sonoyta Valley.

Although a research database exists for the monument, there is still a lack of basic data necessary to fully understand park resources and related threats. Threats to water resources include alteration of natural flow regimes and groundwater levels, degradation of park water quality, floodplain management and wetlands protection, water rights, and related resource issues such as accelerated erosion. In addition, other pressing concerns include the protection of threatened, endangered, and rare plant and animal species and communities, air quality management, evaluation of visitor use impacts and limits, protection and management of wilderness, abandoned mine lands mitigation, control of trespassed livestock and revegetation of impacted sites.

Natural and Cultural Resources Management Program

The current Natural and Cultural Resources Management and Research Program at Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument encompasses a broad array of activities designed to both address resource threats and issues and to develop an on-going system of monitoring and evaluating the status of monument natural and cultural resources. The majority of natural resources management activities are carried out by existing monument staff. Historic preservation activities such as historic site inspections are implemented by monument staff, while archeological activities are closely coordinated with the Western Archeological Conservation Center, Tucson, AZ. In FY 1996, there are approximately forty-five identified research projects on-going within the monument. These projects all have defined Principal Investigators and do not include activities, such as ecological monitoring, that are carried out by monument resources management staff. Research administration is coordinated by the resources management division with assistance from the National Biological Service, Cooperative National Park Resources Studies Unit (CPSU/UA). In addition, support for on-going natural and cultural resources management activities is provided by the natural and cultural resources staff of the Southern Arizona Group Office and the Southwest System Support Office.

FY 1996 NATURAL AND CULTURAL RESOURCES MANAGEMENT OPERATIONS PLAN

This FY 1996 Operations Plan outlines natural and cultural resources management and research activities and projects to be accomplished during the fiscal year. The information is presented in a programming sheet and monthly reports and activity log formats and is designed for use by resources management staff. Activities and projects are identified under specific categories, including Resources Management and Research Administration, Ecological Monitoring Program, Information Management, Vegetation Management, Wildlife Management, Threatened, Endangered & Sensitive Species, Water Resources/Air Resources, Quitobaquito Wetlands Conservation Projects, Cultural Resources, Collections Management, Integrated Pest Management, Other Field Activities and Research. Completion times and lead responsibilities are assigned. Some information in the program sheets are repeated throughout sections to facilitate ease of use (i.e. Investigator's Annual Report tasks are both under Administration and Research). Responsibilities for projects and activities fall primarily with the monument Resources Management staff. Although most foreseeable activities are outlined in the plan, the document is meant to be flexible to address issues that may arise during the year.

This fiscal year the data is also available in ManagePro 3.1 for Windows. Progress on activities identified in the Operations Plan will be tracked via this software. In the third section of this report the data is provided in the ManagePro report format.
